

Consulate General of Italy Comes to Serve You

(March 24, 2012)

After the great success of the initiative organized on March 14 in Glen Cove (Long Island), the Consulate General of Italy in New York now is planning a new one in West Babylon

Are you an Italian resident in West Babylon with an expired Italian passport? Here is your chance to renew it, right on time for celebrating Easter with that part of the family that didn't leave the boot-shaped country.

The Consulate General of Italy in New York [2] is in fact planning a new consular mission to your area on April 4. The mission will be hosted by the Centro Culturale Italiano in West Babylon (606 Sunrise Highway).

The initiative was scheduled after the great success of the consular mission organized on March 14 in Glen Cove, Long Island.

The Glen Cove mission was held under the guidance of Deputy Consul General Lucia Pasqualini, with the participation of Honorary Consul to Mineola Antonio Tufano and with the support of the Passport Office of the Consulate in New York.

Over a hundred Italian citizens visited the Glen Cove office of the Order Sons of Italy in America to renew their passports. The Consulate's initiative was very well received by the local community, and it was also visited by Ralph V. Suozzi, Major of Glen Cove.

The Consulate General plans on visiting the areas of Albany and Rochester within the year, with the intention of bringing the institution closer to the community. Visit the Consulate General's website for dates and details and for a complete list of the activities and services offered by the Consulate.
